CALIFORNIA STATE LIBRARY

RICHMOND TERMINAL

VOL. IX. RICHMOND, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JULY 1, 1911. NO. 23.

MARION IN MEXICO

BY TEMPLE BAILEY

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"That's all nonsense," said McHenry, as Gloria came back from the kitchenette with the oysters in a quaint blue bowl.

"What is nonsense?" she inquired.

"That you and Marion won't be friends. You are both so perfect—you think alike and talk alike."

"Do we?" she asked. "How long have you known Marion?"

"Three years."

"And in the three years you have been together four weeks. The rest of your knowledge of her comes from her letters. Does she write letters like mine?"

He threw back his head and laughed. "Your letters?" he reflected. "Did you ever write more than four lines to me?"

She smiled as she bent over the bubbling cream in the chafing dish. As he watched her stir it he thought that tomorrow he would be on the cars and that there would be no brown head within his line of vision.

"I wonder if Marion can cook oysters as you do?" he said, suddenly.

For answer she handed him a toasting fork. "Make yourself useful, you are so lazy."

Somewhat awkwardly he got down on the hearth rug.

"Am I lazy?" he questioned, looking up at her, "or is it increasing avoirdupois?"

"Both," wickedly, "and you must reform."

"Why?"

"Marion will want you to dance and to ride while you are in Mexico, and when she comes north she will golf and play tennis and you will roam with her over the links by day and glide over polished floor by night."

He laid down his fork and forgot the toast. "Will I have to do all of those things?"

"Why not? She is young. She loves the pleasures of youth."

"But you—you don't care for them."

"I am not young," briefly.

"You are younger than I am—"

"Oh, well," significantly.

He started to say something, then finished the toast.

"Have you any more uncomfortable things to say?" he demanded.

"Uncomfortable?" her eyebrows went up. "Have I said anything uncomfortable?"

"He Followed Her."

"That I am old and fat and lazy."

She gave the oysters a final stir. "You are too literal. I have only been telling you that you must not deprive your young wife of the things she loves."

"She is not my young wife."

"She is going to be."

"If she will have me, always remember that, please, if she will have me."

"It is your province to make her have you. You only have to put your mind to it. You've got it in you to make any woman care for you."

He turned her remark over in his mind; then he gasped and stood up. "Gloria, you don't mean—"

She interrupted him hurriedly. "The coffee's ready, and if I don't serve these oysters they will be cooked to death."

But he was still staring at her. "I wonder—" he murmured.

She arranged two thin wedges of toast symmetrically on a plate, heaped the oysters on them, and handed them to him.

He ate in silence for a moment and then returned to the attack. "Do you think I could make any woman love me, Gloria?"

"You heard my opinion. I don't know that I need repeat it," sedately. "You've always had your own way and you'll get it now. Marion has probably flirted with a half dozen swarthy suitors this winter, but the fact that she keeps up her correspondence with you shows that she still has an interest in you. And you are good-looking, and rich—"

"Do you think me good-looking?" he interposed.

Over the top of the percolator she surveyed him sertously.

"Your eyes aren't my favorite color—I like brown better than gray, and I wish you would brush your hair straight back from your forehead instead of parting it in that old-fashioned way. But your chin is strong, and you have a nice voice. Yes, I think on the whole Marion will succumb."

He came back to himself with a start. "Marion? Oh, yes. But, you—Gloria—"

"You've made me forget the celery and the pickles," she told him severely, "with your chatter about Marion and Mexico." And away she went to the refrigerator in the kitchenette.

He followed her. "There isn't any water, either, let me lift those bottles for you."

But he did it abstractedly, and stood, one big bottle in each hand, staring at her while she dug out the pickles with a long fork.

"I shall miss my evenings with you, Gloria—"

"Of course you will," she said briskly.

"Marion won't cook oysters for you, but you can eat fruit by moonlight, which is much more romantic—you remember in her last letter she said that she was getting to be half vegetarian?"

As she speared the last pickle she glanced up to catch the blank expression of his face.

"Vegetarian," he said helplessly, "but look here, Gloria, you know—I like this sort of thing—the cozy little rooms and the chafing dish—and your coffee—and by jove," his face was suddenly illumined, "and you, Gloria."

"Don't drop those water bottles," she cried, and fled back to the dining room, whence he followed her, expostulating.

"You won't let me be sentimental."

"I?" She caught her breathh quickly. "Why should I let you be sentimental?"

"Because"—his words tumbled over each other—"until you said just now that I could make any woman love me, I didn't dream that I would have any chance with you. You seemed so absorbed in other things—so far above you—you are the only woman my heart has ever knelt to, Gloria. You seemed so fine—so remote—and the only times we have ever unbent have been on such evenings as this, when for a little while you have come down to my human level, but otherwise you have always been a goddess on a pedestal. And I never thought of asking you to marry me, because it seemed preposterous that you could care for a lazy fellow like me. So when Marion drifted into my life—you know how young and pretty she is—and I yearned for a home, I just picked her out as the best I could find. But do you think I would have looked at anyone else if I had thought that you—"

There could be no doubt of his earnestness. His face was white, and his voice broke as he rounded out his little speech. "Think of it," he said, "if I had gone to Mexico tomorrow, and had missed you."

She was very pale, but her eyes were like stars as across the table she held out her hand to him. "I know, my dear," she said softly, "and that is why I spoiled your trip to Mexico."

HOW NICKNAME ORIGINATED

When Dutchman Is Stopped From Entering House He Tells Doorman He Is an Alligator.

Makers of the laws are accustomed to finding themselves likened to divers species of the "lower animals" in times of political excitement, and at all times among the cartoonists and newspaper writers, but perhaps nowhere else has so remarkable a term been applied to the legislator as one noted and explained in "The Old Virginia Gentleman," by George W. Bagby.

For many years the members of the Virginia house of delegates were nicknamed "Alligators." The origin of the term is said to be this:

An uncouth, roughly dressed Dutchman one day attempted to make his way into the hall, but was met by the doorkeeper with the query, "What do you want?"

"I vants to go in here."

"Whom do you want to see?"

"I don't vants to see nobody; I vants to go in."

"You can't go in, sir. The house is in session, and it is against the rules. If you want to see any member, I will call him out."

"I vants to go in," persisted the Dutchman.

"I tell you again, you can't go in!" retorted the doorkeeper, angrily.

"But I ish a Alligator."

"A what?" cried the puzzled doorkeeper.

"I ish a Alligator miteself."

"What did you say—a alligator?" The doorkeeper stared in amazement.

"Yaw!" roared the now excited Dutchman. "I ish one of dem Alligators from the County of Vythe."

A light dawned on the doorkeeper's mind.

"Now I understand you!" he exclaimed. "You are a delegate from the County of Wythe. Walk in, sir."

Ever since the term "Alligator" has been a household word in Virginia.—Youth's Companion.

The Finishing Touch.

Crosskleun lettered a card and hung it out front: "We Keep the Best of Everything."

Some wag pencilled beneath: "And Sell Other Folks the Shoddy!"

When the Bravest Quails.

"No man is utterly indifferent to the public."

"Oh, I don't know. Somebody has to wear the first straw hat of the season."

THE CHILDREN

AMPHIBIOUS ANIMAL FOR PET

Small Seal Frequenting Coasts of Great Britain Is Quite Intelligent and Easily Tamed.

BY CLAUDE B. MAPHAM.

Most people are accustomed to think of a seal merely as an amphibious creature, from which sealskin cloaks, caps, etc., are obtained; but few are aware that it is an animal of great intelligence, and as capable of being domesticated and made a pet of as a dog or cat.

The small seal frequenting the coasts of Great Britain, though inferior in value to its cousin of the South seas, surpasses it in this intelligence and tractability. It is easily tamed, and can even be trained to follow its master like a dog, of course in its own awkward, legless fashion.

As I was walking along the beach at Scarborough, England, one day, I observed a little crowd of people gathered around a [illegible] vehicle, half cart, half tank. [illegible] the vehicle stood a [illegible] and on it a small seal was [illegible] by plunging into the water [illegible] the word of command [illegible] catching sticks and [illegible] in its mouth, and [illegible] other tricks, after which a second cap was passed around [illegible] and I heard a good deal of [illegible].

I passed on and had gone a considerable distance along the sands when suddenly I became aware that everybody except myself—the pedestrians, the donkeys on which I had seen a few [illegible] before, the boat-women [illegible] shells, the hucksters [illegible] cockle peddlers, merchant and [illegible] the piers, the beach itself—was hurrying in the same direction.

The tide was coming in.

Not wishing to be caught by the rapid waves that chased each other up the beach, I turned also and followed the multitude towards, for I saw that the breakwater line clearly defined on the sea wall by a dark heavy growth of seaweed, was decidedly above my head.

When I reached the place where the seal was exhibiting, I found the throng all gone, and the man standing alone by his cart, with the tired creature clinging to his breast, its paws resting on his neck, just like a [illegible] or a little child, while the man gently stroked down its wet, glistening back with his hand.

I stood a moment, much interested, looking at the pair.

"He seems to know you," said I.

"Oh, he knows me," said the man, with the ring of affectionate conviction in his voice. "He knows me and he's not fearful and understands every word I say to him."

And his hand, with a yet tenderer touch, pressed still closer to his old faded red waistcoat the wet, dripping form of his humble friend.

It was a clear case of mutual attachment.

Its Head Snuggled Into His Neck.

TO BE SEEN THROUGH.

"Give me an example of a transparent object."

"A keynote."

The Dog and the Cat.

"If my dog can lick your cat,"
Said Naughty Tommy Lee,
And when the dog licked pussy's face,
"I told you so," said he.

Oatmeal in the Morning.

"Now, Elmer," said the teacher of the juvenile class, "what is the meal we eat in the morning called?"

"Oatmeal," was the prompt reply.

COULDN'T STUMP SMALL BOY

Bully Who Wanted to Kick Empty Bowl Carried by Youngster Is Given Permission.

The little boy was carrying home the empty bowl that had contained his father's dinner when a big bully appeared.

"Do you mind if I kick that bowl?" inquired the bully.

"Not a bit," said the small boy.

"You mean that? Do you mind if I kick that bowl?"

"Not a bit."

"For the last time: Do you mind if I kick that bowl?"

"No. I should like you to."

"Oh, would you? Then watch me!" exclaimed the bully, as he shattered the bowl to atoms.

"Do you mind now?"

"Not a bit," retorted the small boy, edging away. "My mother borrowed the bowl from your mother this morning. You'll hear all about it when you get home!"

IMPOSSIBLE.

Molly—Jack said he'd spend his last cent on me.

Dolly—Impossible! He spent his last cent on me before I threw him over.

Singularly Fitting.

"They were discussing Brown, his charming manner and his lack of moral responsibility in all matters connected with money. "He means to be honest as the sun," said one of his friends, "but he doesn't get around to paying his debts."

"He ought not to have any debts," said another man. "He ought to have what my boy in college wrote me for the other day—'Kathleen Mavourneen' loans."

"What are they?" asked one of the party.

"A 'Kathleen Mavourneen' loan 'may be for years, and it may be forever,'" said the author.—Youth's Companion.

Thought He Understood.

"Now, there's one thing that I want to impress upon you," said the head of the [illegible] corporation after he had formally notified the new general manager of his appointment, "and that is that you are to see that the laws, so far as they apply to the operation of this concern, are strictly observed."

"Very well."

"If we keep our business honestly we will [illegible]."

"I understand. Which bookkeeper do you suspect of gathering an intention to try to blackmail you?"

A Ray of Hope.

"I'm [illegible] to see this improvement for [illegible]," said the pessimist. "It [illegible] for an era of better understanding and kindliness. You [illegible] will develop international [illegible]."

"I wasn't [illegible] about foreign countries. [illegible] Canada and the United States can come to a sociable agreement [illegible] we can hope that Chicago and New York will yet have some respect for each other."

Running Down Clues.

"Hah!" said Sherlock Bones, mysteriously, "I have discovered that the man you think so lacking in energy really has a great deal of push."

"How did you find it out?" asked the admiring friend.

"Hist!" I saw him this morning buying a baby carriage and a lawn mower."

Would Make Him Care.

Jaggins: "Who was that said if he could make the songs of the people he wouldn't care who made the laws?"

Meggins: "Don't know. But if he's the chap who's making the songs of the people nowadays I'd just like to have the making of the laws a little while." That's all.—Red Hen.

Not Much Sense.

"They talk about horse sense! There isn't any such thing."

"Why, the horse is regarded as a very sensible animal."

"How can he be, when he evidently does not like the idea of always having a bit in his mouth?"

An Odd Outlook.

"There is one queer thing about educational institutions."

"What is that?"

"A primary excellence in secondary schools to keep them from being third rate."

Skepticism.

"A man arrested the other day for 'mashing,' says he has an affliction of the eyes that makes him wink."

"Well?"

"His excuse made everybody else in court wink."

J. R. Pillow Phone Richmond 911 Alfred Pillow

Pioneer Coal and Transfer Co.

COAL

Hay, Grain and Millstuffs

STORAGE

DRAY AND EXPRESS

1130 Second Street - - - Richmond, Cal.

Telephone Richmond 1981

Phone Orders Promptly Attended to

GOLDEN GATE CREAMERY

E. L. BRAZIL, Manager

Clarified Milk and Cream

Butter Made from Selected Cream

The Tuberculin Test has been Applied to All Herds Connected with the Golden Gate Creamery

Fresh Buttermilk on Hand Daily

215 Richmond Ave., Point Richmond, Cal.

Why Go With Dirty Clothes?

GET THEM CLEANED AT

Richmond Dyeing and Cleaning Works

HATS CLEANED AND BLOCKED

Phone Richmond 4091 225 Macdonald Ave

Richmond Lumber Company

(INCORPORATED)

A Large and Complete Stock of All Classes of

BUILDING MATERIALS

Office and Yard at Southern Pacific Depot

Phone Richmond 491 F. E. ADAMS, Richmond

California Sanitary Laundry

RALPH E. REDMOND, Agent

Ladies' and Gents' Fine Work

A SPECIALTY

Rough Dry Work Strictly Union Work

Ring Up 1501, RICHMOND, CAL.

BOTH THE FRONT AND BACK

of the Suits we make show our skill in

THE SCIENCE OF TAILORING

We pay as much attention to the "set" of the back as we do to the front. In a word every part of the new Spring or Summer Suit we make for you will show the hall mark of superior workmanship.

We will give you a suit that any man would be proud to wear, even if he is accustomed to paying a great deal more for his clothing than we charge.

F. RHOADS

Merchant Tailor

646 Barrett Ave., RICHMOND, CAL.

DRINK

CALWA

Grape Juice

Zinfandel---Muscatel

SPARKLING WINES

....PASTEURIZED....

Headquarters for Shipping

California Wine Association

WINEHAVEN

Richmond, California

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

TELL YOUR FRIENDS

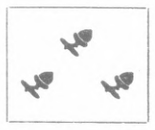
THAT THE BEST QUALITY OF STOCK TO SELECT FROM, THE MOST REASONABLE, UP-TO-DATE AND ARTISTIC

Job Printing

ALSO

Commercial and Legal

ADVERTISING



IS WITH THE

RICHMOND TERMINAL

Contra Costa County's Leading Newspaper

Oldest Established Paper at Richmond, Cal.

WE ALSO PRINT

Letter Heads
Note Heads
Bill Heads
Cards
Blanks
Posters
Circulars
Tickets
Envelopes

PERFECT WORK AT RIGHT PRICES

The First Unionized Print Shop in Richmond

P. O. BOX 228 618 MACDONALD AVE.

Invitations
Artistic Sign Writing

PHONE RICHMOND 132

ORIGINAL DEFECTIVE

Richmond Terminal

Legal Paper, City and County

Charles Sumner Young, Proprietor

ISSUED EVERY SATURDAY
BY
Dr. Warren B. Brown
(Assn)
Editor and Publisher

THE ESTABLISHED PAPER

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One year in advance $1.00
One year outside 1.50
Six months in advance .50
Six months outside .75

Advertising rates on application.

Entered at SECOND CLASS MATTER Dec. 21, 1907, at RICHMOND, CALIFORNIA, under the ACT of CONGRESS of 1879.

UNION LABEL

SATURDAY, July 1, 1911

PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION SAN FRANCISCO 1915 CALIFORNIA

The Land Office at Marysville reports the first final account in this city. Too slow.

Richmond will celebrate the Fourth of July at Grand Canyon Park, center of amusement attractions.

POST-OFFICE SITE SETTLED

The post office question of Richmond consolidation postoffices has been established on 9th[illegible] Street, near Macdonald Avenue, a location that will prove more satisfactory as the city grows. Of course this is one of several good locations put on the list by our progressive citizens. The location is central for Winehaven, Pt. Richmond on the one side and Stege and San Pablo, and Tidewater which be the City of Richmond expands, and the site is selected by the U. S. Postal Department at Washington, D. C. Ties in Point Richmond expended, as is shown by the locations of business of every description coming across to the busy street. The time for little bickerings is past. Let us now get together spirit is the opportunity ideal of the boosters.

The state highway will not pass very far from the new postoffice site and the [illegible] Harbor, the ferry across San Pablo Bay, to the front at North Richmond, opening of Cutting Boulevard, the Richmond Channel, all will contribute to the sum total results of our growing big city, but something must be done soon as the Exposition year is approaching. The big center cannot be moved and as the city grows in activity the postoffice central will be more and more forgotten. The public should not forget the generous offices of G. Ghirardelli who contributed nearly $[illegible] towards the postal service of Richmond, besides time, and without recompense or reward, and when the postoffice at Sixth street was about to be taken from the center to the west so just because no site was off to the center, it was Ghirardelli's planned ways and means to [illegible] Richmond postoffice when the site in Macdonald Building was also considered a good location but the U. S. Postal Department chose a site between the other two proposed sites and everybody is happy over the final decree.

CURRENT GOSSIP.

Mr. and Mrs. George Purdy of Los Angeles are visiting the Richmond Purdys.

Salutes will be fired at the celebration of July 4th at Grand Canyon Park.

In the Examiner contest Richard Henrich leads in Richmond by over 194,279 votes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Perez, a pioneer, is building a $10,000 home near Macdonald-ave.

The new manager of Richmond Theatre opened with good shows and all at once left the scenes and if he has not stopped, he is going yet, and since the fall of his curtains no one seems to know anything of him, and he seems to be "On again, off again, off again, Flanigan." Any one who could not make a success in the moving picture business in this, pretty show house in Richmond might find it more congenial to go to the swamps of Florida and engage in the industry of turtle eggs. Vale, Flanigan.

THE RICHMOND INNER HARBOR.

The movement to build the Inner Harbor in Richmond seems to have gained an impetus that promises to [illegible] with success.

Readers of the Terminal all know what this Inner Harbor will mean [illegible] Richmond. No engineer [illegible] doubt [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] Richmond [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] Richmond [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] Richmond [illegible] the [illegible] of

50,000
Population in 1915

RAILROAD DIRECTORY.

–City of Richmond–

Notice—THE TERMINAL challenges any like in the World to show as great railroad development in ten years.

TRAINS LEAVE RICHMOND FROM 1915 MACDONALD AVENUE DEPOTS AS FOLLOWS:

Southern Pacific

The subway, at the north Richmond depot on Macdonald avenue, a cost of $55,000, a permanent improvement, built in 1909, fixes for all time the grade of commercial traffic ways.

The most important and best modern, enlarged mission style depot on the AVENUE and a well-planned local line extension north from Berkeley to Point Pedro, hugging the bay, via West Berkeley to San Francisco, will be [illegible]

Toward San Francisco

From Richmond

Local Lv. Richmond ex. Sun. 6:45 am
Local Lv. Richmond ex. Sun. 9:25 am
No 21 Tonopah Stopsfor all points 9:05 am
Local Leave Richmond
No 15 Seattle Stopsfor all points 9:45 am
No 41 Stockton Stopsfor all points 10:45 am
No 17 Niles, Livermore and Sacramento
No 43 Ione and Stockton
No 11 Seattle Stopsfor all points 2:45 pm
No 13 Chicago Stopsfor all points 3:45 pm
No 1 Chicago Stopsfor all points 5:45 pm
No 51 Bakersfield
No 45 San Ramon
No 19 Sacramento
No 7 Los Angeles Stopsfor all points 9:45 pm
Local Leave Richmond
Local Leave Richmond

From San Francisco

No 8 Sacramento
Local Arr. Wash. Ferry, Sat. only
Local Arr. Wash. Ferry, Sun. only
Local Arrive Richmond
No 20 Sacramento
No 42 Lake Chabot
No 4 Del Paso
No 16 Los Angeles
No 22 Tonopah
No 10 Sacramento, Marysville
No 50 Ione and Stockton
No 42 Oakland and Alameda
Local Arrive Richmond
Local Arrive Richmond
No 20 Local
No 42 Local
No 16 Local
No 50 Local
No 10 Local
No 22 Local
No 50 Local
No 42 Local
No 16 Local
No 10 Local
No 22 Local
No 50 Local

The last train leaves Richmond for Berkeley, Alameda, Oakland and Point Richmond at 12:45 a. m. Trains leave Point Richmond, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley at 1:00 a. m. for Richmond.

When leaving Oakland for Richmond, Point Richmond, Berkeley, Alameda or Oakland, be sure your train stops at Richmond.

Santa Fe

The Oakland & East Side Ry. is the northern terminus of the Santa Fe system and is there met and connected with by the next for San Francisco via the Santa Fe Route.

Toward San Francisco

No 3 Chicago Express
No 41 Stockton
No 11 Houston Mail
No 7 El Paso
No 1 Chicago Limited
No 5 Kansas City Limited
No 45 Bakersfield

From San Francisco

No 4 Kansas City Limited
No 2 Chicago Limited
No 6 El Paso
No 10 Houston Mail
No 42 Stockton
No 12 Chicago Express

The Santa Fe has no Sunday local service. All changes on the main line and in local service

Oakland & East Side Ry.

[A., T. & S. F. Ry. COAST LINES]

This line connects with the A. T. & S. F. Ry. at Richmond.

From Richmond

No 11 Local
No 51 Local
No 31 Local
No 21 Local
No 41 Local
No 23 Local
No 43 Local
No 33 Local
No 53 Local
No 13 Local

To Richmond

No 12 Local
No 52 Local
No 32 Local
No 22 Local
No 42 Local
No 24 Local
No 44 Local
No 34 Local
No 54 Local
No 14 Local

All trains run daily except Sunday and Ohio local trains, which run daily except to schedule of Machinists' time. Local stops from Oakland to Richmond.

At Sixth Street Station, Oakland, Richmond Avenue cars connect.

KEY ROUTE TO GRAND CANYON PARK

The Santa Fe has established a Richmond and Oakland local with complete success. Passengers are carried speedily between Richmond and service. Richmond is the main station and regular stops are made at Richmond Avenue, Sixth Street, and Wall Street near Pullman Ice

East Shore & Suburban Ry
—Electric cars. Local service.

The electric cars give service equal to any modern American city, connecting all parts of the city, transfers at the main junction at Macdonald Avenue and Sixth St.; also at Macdonald Ave. and Twenty-Third. Fare from Berkeley and Seventh, Oakland to Richmond, 65c. To Pt. Richmond, 15c.

Richmond Belt Railway

The Belt Line connects Richmond with the commerce of the world through the oceanic and inland shipping with Richmond as a distributing center for all overland railroads, the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe, which, by trackage agreements, control the Belt Line and each assuming separate transportation every alternate year. The Belt Line affloat discharge and take on cargo to meet the Terminal overland railroads here at deeper water than at San Francisco. The Belt Line also carries factory, warehouse, wharf and [illegible] es, twice daily, via East Shore & Suburban electric cars to and from their homes in Richmond.

At the Moose night at the Helm Theatre, the press omitted to mention that two critics of a leading show circuit were present. In general terms the theatre was complimented, and they also spoke especially complimentary of Miss Eleanor Lorraine Brown who was considered good talent for a star vocal singer.

Richmond Savings Bank, with $25,000 capital, opened in the First National Bank Building, Macdonald avenue, today. The following are the directors: Charles F. Curry, Clinton E. Worden, J. M. Quigg, F. E. Beck, James K. Lynch, C. H. Robinson, John C. Boyd, Eugene D. Dumm, V. A. Rance, cashier; C. G. LeMoss, assistant cashier; Alfred J. Heath.

DYE TO LIVE.

Richmond Cleaning and Dye Works at 928 Macdonald avenue is established and the firm is prepared to serve the public satisfactorily and promptly.

J. C. Burnham and D. D. Mc[illegible] have purchased the cleaning business [illegible] from the enlarged plant includes a garage with machinery which will soon be installed.

[illegible] theatre will open [illegible] Contracts are [illegible] the interior will be [illegible] and [illegible] will be [illegible]

"PAP 'KURTZ.'"

"KURTZ" is the name which has [illegible] with the Richmond [illegible] and "Pap" is KURTZ. Board of Trade would inspect the [illegible] Gems" Furnishing [illegible] and Macdonald, the [illegible] KURTZ. In these windows [illegible] KURTZ, the windows present [illegible] KURTZ. The [illegible] which will [illegible] the Spanish-American [illegible] KURTZ [illegible] KURTZ [illegible]

IMPROVEMENTS.

BIG AFFAIR.

The grand ball of the Western Pipe & Steel Company held a large attendance and it is said to be the best held at East Shore Park this year. The decorations with national colors, flowers and Japanese lanterns were magnificent and the hall never was decorated prettier.

E. F. Tousing was floor manager and Thomas Hawkins assistant; the committees were: Boat, Richard Storer, W. F. Feeley, W. H. Day, [illegible] A. Holzer, A. L. Gee, [illegible] W. Barrows, A. S. Brown, arrangements, W. E. Valentine, G. Tousing, Thomas Hawkins, E. Rossville, F. E. Tousing. The affair was highly creditable.

TOWN TALK

Subscribe for the TERMINAL.

Advertise in the Terminal and boosters. Prosperity [illegible]

Mrs. A. Bastin is visiting her sons, Leonard and Carl Bastin.

G. W. Cushing, who is suffering from a broken collarbone, is getting [illegible]

Machine [illegible] and [illegible] and will [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

There is a [illegible] for the [illegible] [illegible] Stanley Knight and Mort Ellis will [illegible] [illegible]

Very many people go to St. Helena to the theatre [illegible] Short [illegible] and they [illegible] the good [illegible] and spring [illegible] the [illegible]

The Independent Machinists [illegible] a [illegible] at Pearl Lee [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Look for [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

M. Master & Wood [illegible] their work [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

FREE ADVICE TO WOMEN

Women suffering from any form of illness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women. A woman can surely tell more freely of her private illness to a woman, and thus has been established the confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Nearly a million have been published. Not a testimonial or recommendation published without the writer's consent, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of genuine letters in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which Mrs. Pinkham has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge needed in your case. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Mrs. Pinkham, care of Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

Why He Didn't Stand Up.

It was [illegible] revival meeting.

"Let all your troubles go," [illegible] shouted the [illegible] brother.

Instantly every [illegible] rose to his feet except a [illegible].

"All exercises must stop," [illegible] out of the [illegible] "Any man who can't stand for a chant is not fit to live. You are a disgrace to humanity."

"I cannot stand," [illegible] "because I am a cripple. I lost my leg in the battle of Bull Run."

"Then," [illegible] "you are a disgrace to humanity. Leave the room."

"I cannot go